Also known as: @MikoDayooooo, @Lahtome, and @YamakaKiyo

First of all, I don't wish for things to escalate this way. I originally was going to wait until they responded before posting this document. But as I continued my research, tons and tons of evidence started piling up. I have decided to no longer wait and will be personally taking matters into my own hands. I hope this document serves as a warning and a message to others to stay away from this person at all cost.

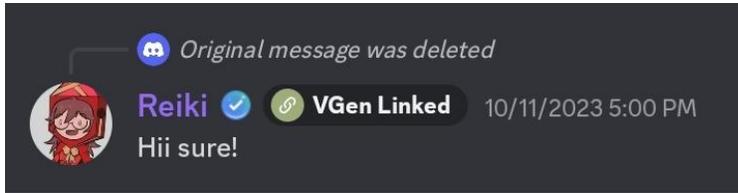

I apologize for any grammatical errors in this document as English isn't my first language.

My Experience with Kiyo:

Kiyo posted a buying post in the VGen Discord server (The original posts and replies from them are now deleted due to being banned there)

A lot of people applied. I, myself, included. Kiyo then reached out to me saying they would like to proceed and wanted to talk to me further about the commission which I happily agreed

This then happened as follows. I will post our whole message from start to finish so that things won't be taken out of context. Personal information will be censored of course.

Notice that the details they sent were vague. No color palette? There were also no other details provided. Nevertheless I assumed they trusted me with my design and I ignored it.

They then said that they were in a rush for the poster and asked me to prioritize it. They wanted to make it within 30 - 40 minutes and didn't want to wait long. Which surprised me. But nonetheless I still complied.

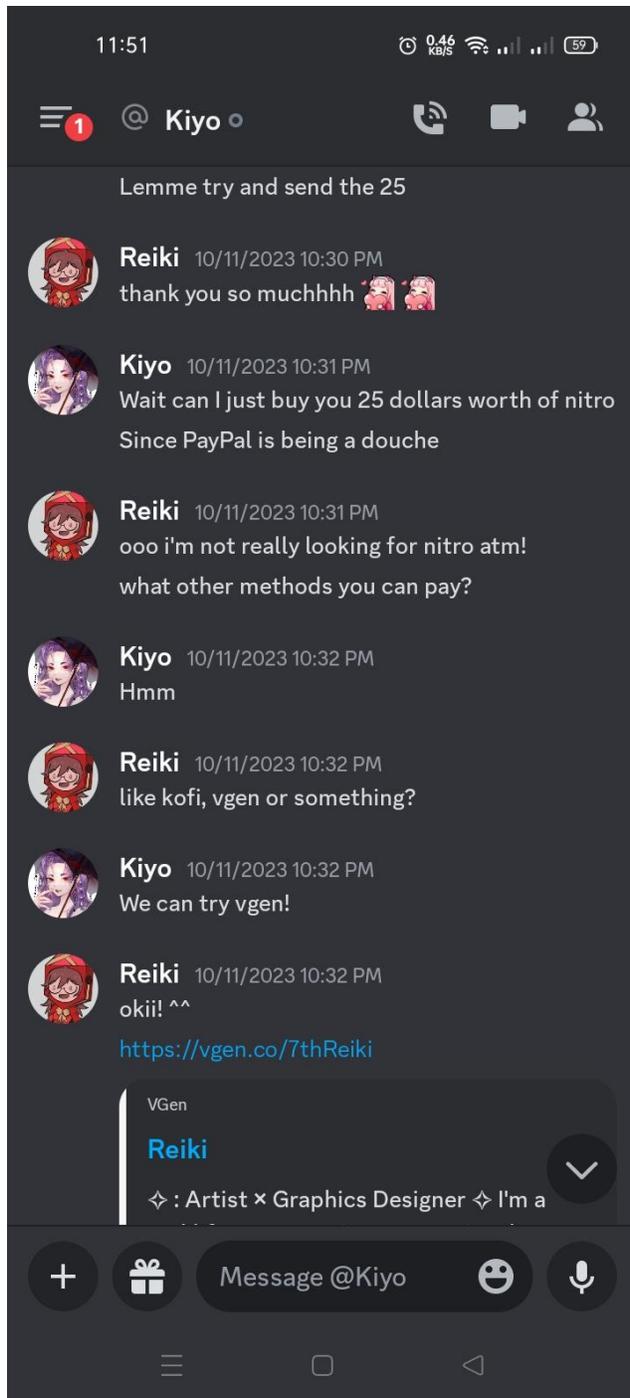

They then said that they were having problems with their PayPal and asked if they could send it later. To which I obliged since they already paid the initial amount from earlier.

They then showed me their PayPal balance as proof that they can pay and gave me assurance. It didn't bother me one bit and I proceeded to work on their order.

It took me an extra 20 minutes but nevertheless I completed their rush order and they were happy with the result.

They then asked if there were other payment methods I was taking since their PayPal still isn't working. They tried to offer me nitro which I politely refused and we both agreed on VGen.

This was the end of our conversation. They didn't respond if they want to be tagged so I assume they didn't want to, which was totally fine. I sent them the full finished product bundle via email.

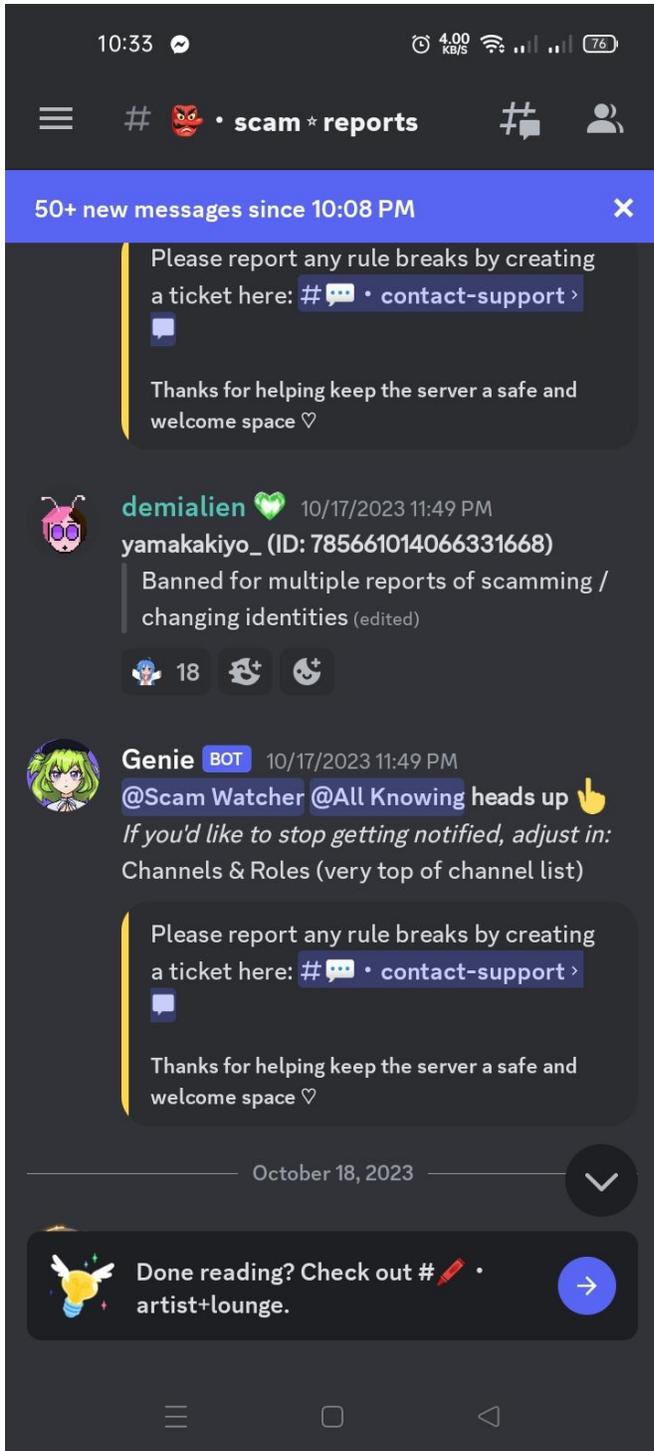

A week and several days later, they filed a chargeback on PayPal without any notice. They haven't contacted me at all prior to this and I have sent them the full packaged product and completed their order.

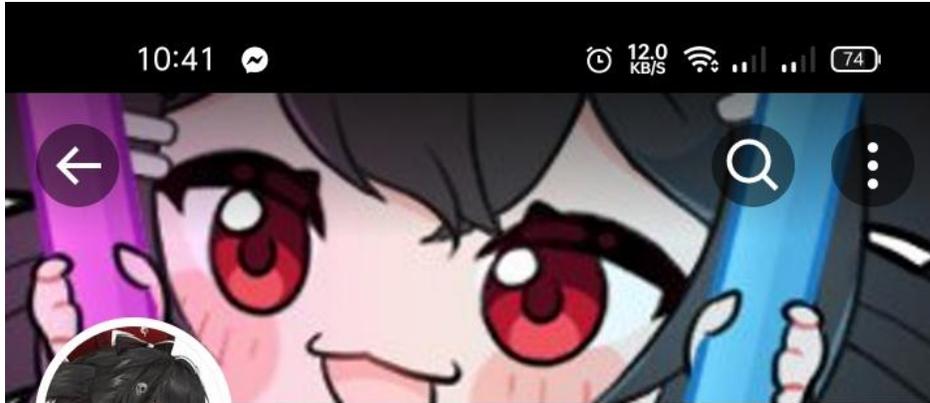

I did research and found that they were banned from VGen. I tried contacting them about it but they have no response.

My research about Kiyo:

Kiyo was part of VGen. A platform for artists and creators alike to find clients and for clients to do the same. They have been banned from the server for multiple reports of scamming and changing identities.

They were exposed for tracing in their artworks. (Their twitter handle here was @YamakaKiyo before changing to @Lahtome)

Apparently, the "speedpaint" and art they posted for their 14 follower art raffle (which gained them abt 600 follows) is also stolen from an artist in insta 😞

Post your reply

They were called out by this and apologized. Which makes it clear that what they did was true.

Another note is that their artist left as their model designer for their VTuber Agency with their reasons undisclosed. A person asked and stated that this was their own choice.

I went and reached out to them and have provided me with a lot of information.

First red flag

They asked me to completely redesign an character, this sounded like it was their OCs

1:44

CyberIdol

So I can make the plan (price sheet)

12:35 PM

Actually let's just do 3! I'd like these 3 characters to be completely redesigned but keep the same aura and aesthetic.

This is clearly a red flag right here since this wasn't their character in the first place and with a bit of image search, they found out that the design wasn't theirs and was found on reddit.

Second red flag, they just asked me if I could make just front view illustrations instead of models (200$ full body illustration and the models slots they took was discounted ones 800$ and my normal price is 1500$) so they could cut it to turn into vtuber models

This is clearly looking for ways to make things cheaper and cut corners.

Fortunately for them, They haven't gotten further with their commission and canceled immediately.

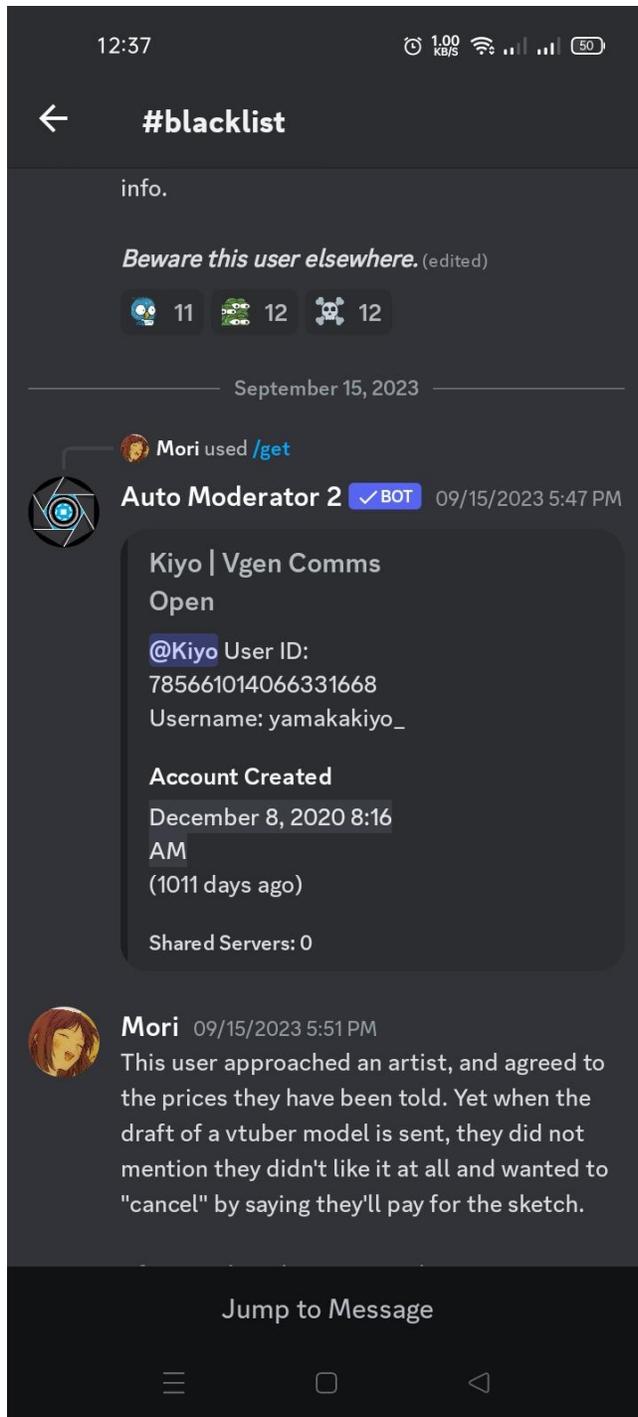

I should have noticed this as a red flag before proceeding to their commission. Thank you so much @0_sukii again for providing information!

Banned from other art servers:

They have also been banned from Mashiro's Art Market server. It is a very big server for commissioners and artists to find each other. I really wish I did research first as they have been banned there since August.

They have also been banned in the Art Commissions server since September.

Final Thoughts:

I hope that this document serves as an awareness to this user and should be avoided at all costs.

I do not wish harm and threats upon this person as this was never my intent and purpose. If you were one of the people that did this, you are no longer welcome in this space and I hope you have a horrible day.

To Kiyo, if you are reading this. I hope that you grow and develop more into a better person. I hope that you take responsibility for the actions you have done. As a fellow artist, I hope that you are able to understand that artists are also human beings and are striving to put food on their plate everyday to survive.
